Playing with Sensitive Heritage:
Learning and Leisure

Maria Grever
Pieter van den Heede

NWO research (2009-2014) Heritage Education, Plurality of Narratives, Shared Historical Knowledge

New research program, July 2015 - 2019
Research Excellence Initiative
Funded by Erasmus University Rotterdam

War! Popular Culture and European Heritage of Major Armed Conflicts

Maria Grever (main applicant)
Stijn Reijnders (co-applicant)
Legacies of war and major armed conflicts can have a long-lasting impact on people and communities (trauma). Tourism, social media, museums, musicals and other popular genres influence the way people deal with that violent past.

Public longing for direct experiential contact with the past

What are the consequences of popular heritage practices related to major violent conflicts for enhancing historical consciousness of young people?

1. Obsession with authenticity (Lowenthal 1997; Zerubavel 2003; Lindholm 2008)

3. Use of new media, blurring boundaries between past/present; real/unreal; authors/readers/users (De Groot 2009; Rigney 2010)

4. Connections between local and global heritage (Meskell 2015)

EXPERIENCE: "FEELING IT IS KNOWING IT"
Sensitive heritage: youngsters take smiling selfies in former concentration camp Auschwitz

Instagram: “Have fun in Berlin!”

Musical “Soldaat van Oranje”
Central research question REI:

How is the heritage of modern war history represented and appropriated in contemporary popular culture, and which modifications or additions can be advised to harmonize these appropriations with the requirements and principles of democratic and civic education?
Heritage (L. Smith 2006)
Dynamic approach; “remains” of the past; constructing and justification of identities

Difficult heritage (Macdonald 2008)
Refers to traces of a past that is contested for public reconciliation with a positive, self-affirming contemporary identity. It may break through into the present in disruptive ways, opening up social divisions, perhaps by playing into imagined, even nightmarish futures.

Popular culture
Influential phenomenon involving available artefacts, social processes and widely favoured cultural utterances (including performativity), mostly expressed in the public arena (Ribbens, 2002; Winter 2010; Korte & Paletschek 2012)

Also a pedagogic domain allowing educators new opportunities to connect their work with students’ experiences (Silberman-Keller et al. 2008; Grever & Van Boxtel 2014)

Civic education
Evidence, arguments, multiperspectivity, respect for democratic principles

Research team War (interdisciplinary collaboration)

Supervisors
Maria Grever, Jeroen Jansz, Franciska de Jong, Stijn Reijnders, Kees Ribbens
Researchers
Siri Driessen: Touching war: contemporary visits to twentieth-century war sites and cemeteries in Europe

Pieter van den Heede: Games set in war-devastated European (urban) landscapes

Laurie Slegtenhorst: Popular culture and the Second World War (Erfgoed Nederland)

Susan Hogervorst: The use of digital testimonies on war and liberation in educational contexts (Open University)