ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Although conducting a Ph.D.-study is a rather solitary activity it is impossible to do it entirely alone. Many people have supported me when I was doing my research and it is a pleasure to acknowledge a number of them here.

First of all I want to thank Prof.dr.ir. Berend Wierenga and Dr.ir. Ale Smidts. I very much appreciate the way they supervised the research. I want to thank them for the freedom they gave me in setting up and carrying out the study. During our discussions, which were always amicable, they provided me with constructive criticism, a lot of good ideas and confidence which made doing the research work enjoyable.

I thank Hugo van der Hoest for programming the two marketing decision support systems and I thank Arco Dalebout for programming the marketing knowledge-based system.

Next, I want to thank the "Vaste Commissie voor de Wetenschapsbeoefening (VCW)" of the "Faculteit Bedrijfskunde" of the Erasmus University Rotterdam for their financial support which made the experiment and the publication of this book possible.

I thank the 240 participants who were willing to spend about three hours each, on the experimental task. Their enthusiasm provided me with pleasure in carrying out the experiment.

I want to thank Wil Sommeling for improving the lay-out of this book and the figures included in it. Furthermore, I thank Kate Williams for correcting my English.

I thank my colleagues at the "Faculteit Bedrijfskunde" of the Erasmus University Rotterdam. Discussions with Mark Aalders and Rik Riezebos were stimulating during the research period.

Finally, I want to thank my family who have always stimulated me to do the research work. Their support was important and is very much appreciated.
