Contents

Foreword xiii

Part I: The Optimum Structure and Management of World Society 1

Chapter 1 Survey of concepts 3
  1.1 Concepts needed 3
  1.2 Qualitative socio-economic concepts: ideologies, aims and means 5
  1.3 Quantitative socio-economic concepts: models, targets and instruments 6
  1.4 Solution of the optimum problem 8
  1.5 Security: qualitative aims and means 9
  1.6 Security: quantitative targets and instruments 11
  1.7 Security optimum is its maximum within a frame of restrictions 13
  1.8 Integration of traditional socio-economic and security structures and policies 14

Chapter 2 Aims: optimal welfare-cum-security 16
  2.1 Welfare-cum-security as a generalised concept 16
  2.2 Welfare: its components and determinants 17
  2.3 Security, or the probability of peace 21
  2.4 Correction of preferences 24
  2.5 Measurement of welfare and security: two models 25
  2.6 A third model 29

Chapter 3 Optimum conditions of 'welfare-cum-security' 31
  3.1 Optimum: maximum within a framework of restrictions 31
  3.2 The natural environment as a restriction 31
3.3 Human nature as a restriction 33
3.4 Technological restrictions: civilian 34
3.5 Technological restrictions: security 35
3.6 Balance equations and definitions 36
3.7 Adherence or non-adherence to treaties 37
3.8 Optimum conditions and their interpretation 37
3.9 Optimum conditions in Models A and C 38

Chapter 4 The optimum social order: its means and institutions 41
4.1 Optimal social order 41
4.2 Civilian institutions and their instruments 43
4.3 Planning institutions 44
4.4 Executive institutions for production, distribution and consumption 45
4.5 The formal education system 48
4.6 Security institutions: political 50
4.7 Security institutions: military 51
4.8 The integrated optimal social order 52
4.9 The limits of sovereign policies 57

Chapter 5 Spatial aspects of the optimum order 62
5.1 Introduction 62
5.2 The vertical dimension 62
5.3 The horizontal dimension: geographical aspects of society 64
5.4 Optimal levels of decision-making 65
5.5 Some other examples of the need for supra-national decision-making 68
5.6 Regional integration 69
5.7 Use of seas 70
5.8 The use of the atmosphere and outer space 72

Chapter 6 Time aspects of the optimum order 74
6.1 The nature of time: types of movement 74
6.2 Essential external causes of economic movements 75
6.3 Main socio-economic variables to be planned or anticipated 76
6.4 Elements of optimality in development: whose utility? 77
6.5 Maximising welfare per capita over what time-period? 79
Contents

6.6 Discounting future welfare? 80
6.7 Some features of the optimum development over time 81

Part II: Policies to Attain the Optimum 85

Chapter 7 Managing our planet 87
7.1 Subjects covered in Part II 87
7.2 Management institutions 90
7.3 Levels of decision-making 92
7.4 Most decision levels remain the same 93
7.5 Functions and powers of the institutions 94
7.6 Private business at supra-national levels 96
7.7 Non-governmental organisations 97

Chapter 8 The socio-economic component: long-term North–South policies 100
8.1 World poverty: the world social problem 100
8.2 Decolonisation and development cooperation 102
8.3 Development planning: how to reduce the scarcity of physical capital. Transnational enterprises 104
8.4 Investment in human capital: cultural aspects of development 107
8.5 International trade; a New International Economic Order; integration 108
8.6 Balance of payments assistance, IMF conditions and the debt problem 110
8.7 Technical assistance; appropriate technology 111
8.8 Self-reliance as a core of development 113
8.9 Concluding remarks 114

Chapter 9 The security component: long-term East–West policy 116
9.1 Historical background 116
9.2 Security policy activities of the United Nations (worldwide or regional) 119
9.3 Security policy bilateral activities of the SU and the US 124
9.4 Present war threats: a summary 127
9.5 Suspicion of the general public: peace movements 128
Contents

9.6 The road to the optimum; treaties to be confirmed 130
9.7 Additional treaties to be concluded 131
9.8 Unilateral steps 132
9.9 Non-military policies 133

Chapter 10 Learning processes 136
10.1 Peaceful coexistence requires learning processes 136
10.2 Central problems 137
10.3 Ethical underdevelopment 139
10.4 Sources of learning: theory 140
10.5 Sources of learning: experience 141
10.6 What would World War III look like? 142
10.7 Who has to learn what? 144

Chapter 11 Strengthening the United Nations 147
11.1 The existing structure of the United Nations; its performance 147
11.2 The need to strengthen the United Nations; reforms of existing institutions 150
11.3 Strengthening of the UN Security Council 153
11.4 The role of the International Court of Justice 154
11.5 Law of the Sea – to be followed by a Law of Space? 155
11.6 United Nations Environmental Programme 156
11.7 Creation of additional UN institutions; a World Treasury 157
11.8 Creation of additional UN institutions; a police force 158

Chapter 12 Integration as a strategy 161
12.1 Integration as a means to end war 161
12.2 Examples of completed integration: the superpowers 162
12.3 Examples of completed integration: middle-sized European nations 163
12.4 Examples of completed integration: smaller European countries 164
12.5 Some Asian examples 166
12.6 Integration in process: the European Community 167
12.7 Integration in process elsewhere 169
12.8 Groups of countries in need of integration 171
12.9 How to prepare for world integration 171
Contents

Chapter 13

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>13.1 Introduction: purpose of this chapter; traditional causes of war</td>
<td>174</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13.2 Ideological causes of war</td>
<td>175</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13.3 Necessary adaptation of societal theories</td>
<td>175</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13.4 Offensive and defensive weapons</td>
<td>176</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13.5 Choice of social order possible only in framework of security</td>
<td>177</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13.6 The need for peaceful change and peaceful coexistence</td>
<td>177</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13.7 Foundations of our thinking about an optimal world order</td>
<td>178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13.8 First steps towards peaceful cooperation: socio-economic</td>
<td>179</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13.9 First steps towards peaceful cooperation: security issues</td>
<td>180</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Index 183